Executive summary

What your answers show

Leaking

Test Profile, your customer journey scores 57 out of 100. There are significant gaps in your journey. You're winning attention and then losing people who were ready to book - which means growth is costing far more than it should.

Your strongest stage is Reminders & No-Show Prevention at 61/100. The stage costing you most right now is Lead Nurture & Follow-Up at 60/100 - which is where this report starts.

At £500-£1,000 per client, one extra client a month adds around £8,400 in lifetime value over a year - the bar every recommendation in this report has to clear.

What the gaps are costing you	£13,900 a year
Enquiries that never became clients	£9,500
Appointments that don't turn up	£2,200
Clients who don't come back	£2,200

Based on 22 appointments a week at £85 over 50 working weeks, an estimated £93,500 a year. The total above is held to 15% of that.

Your top three priorities

Priority 1

Lead Nurture & Follow-Up

60/100 · Needs work

Your nurture is partly built, so some enquiries get looked after and others don't.

Priority 2

Retention & Re-engagement

56/100 · Needs work

Only 28% of your clients are repeat, so most of your income depends on constantly finding new people.

Priority 3

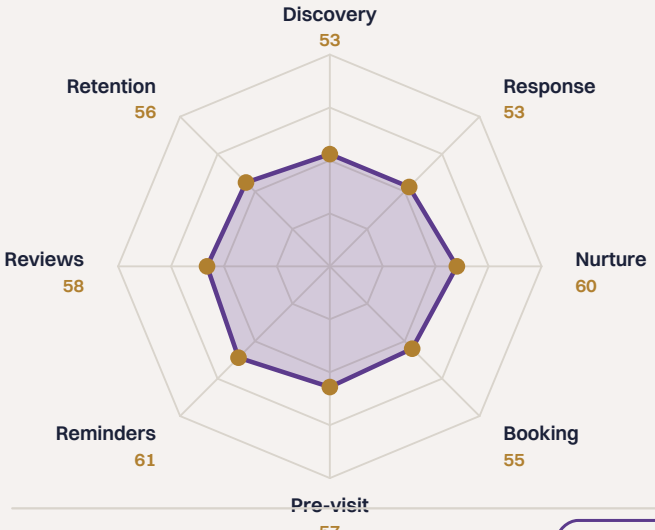

Reminders & No-Show Prevention

61/100 · Needs work

A single reminder leaves a long silent gap between booking and appointment.

All eight stages

Your journey at a glance

How each stage is being run

AUTOMATED happens without anyone thinking about it

SYSTEMISED there is a process, but it still needs you

MANUAL depends on somebody remembering

Manual is under 50, Systemised is 50 to 74, Automated is 75 and over.

Lead Sources & Discovery

SYSTEMISED 53/100

Almost all your enquiries arrive through one or two routes, which makes your diary vulnerable to an algorithm change or a quiet month.

Lead Response

SYSTEMISED 53/100

Same-day replies mean most enquiries sit unanswered for hours, by which point many have booked elsewhere.

Lead Nurture & Follow-Up

SYSTEMISED 60/100

Your nurture is partly built, so some enquiries get looked after and others don't.

Booking Process

SYSTEMISED 55/100

A mix of routes means some clients get a smooth booking and others get a conversation - and the ones who need it easiest usually get the slowest route.

Confirmation & Pre-Appointment

SYSTEMISED 57/100

Paperwork on arrival eats into the time they are paying for, and starts the visit with admin.

Reminders & No-Show Prevention

SYSTEMISED 61/100

A single reminder leaves a long silent gap between booking and appointment.

Reviews & Reputation

SYSTEMISED 58/100

Most reviews go unanswered, which makes an otherwise glowing profile look neglected.

Retention & Re-engagement

SYSTEMISED 56/100

Only 28% of your clients are repeat, so most of your income depends on constantly finding new people.

Your 90-day focus

YOUR FOCUS KPI

Enquiry-to-client conversion

The share of enquiries that become paying clients

TODAY	IN 90 DAYS
34%	42%

Why this number matters most for you

This is the fortnight after that first reply, for everyone who did not book there and then. Most of them were not saying no, they were saying not yet, and then nobody asked again. You have already paid for their attention, so lifting this number costs nothing extra and shows up in the diary within weeks.

The people in this group have already told you they are interested. Following up properly turns a chunk of them into clients without another pound spent on being found, and it stops your diary swinging between good months and quiet ones.

How this number was chosen

Each of the eight stages owns one number. Lead Nurture & Follow-Up scored 60 out of 100, and because it carries more weight in your overall score than most, that gap is costing you more than any other single stage. So the number for this quarter is Enquiry-to-client conversion. The other priorities below were not picked for being weak on their own. They were picked because the work they need also moves Enquiry-to-client conversion, so Lead Response and Booking Process pull in the same direction rather than scattering your effort across eight fronts.

How to measure it

Track the following data: out of every hundred people who enquire, how many end up paying you for something.

Where to get it

Use the same enquiry list as above: one line per enquiry, with the date and where it came from. Count how many enquiries you received last month. Then go through those same people and count how many have since had an appointment. Divide the second number by the first and multiply by a hundred. Use last month rather than this month, because people who enquired this week have not had time to decide yet.

How often to check

Once a month, always looking at the month before last month. Doing it any sooner makes your conversion rate look worse than it is.

Priority 1

Lead Nurture & Follow-Up

SYSTEMISED 60/100

What's working

- You do chase enquiries, which already puts you ahead of most.
- Three to five touches covers the window where most undecided enquiries make their decision.

The gaps

- Your nurture is partly built, so some enquiries get looked after and others don't.
- Your offer changes depending on the conversation, so there's no consistent reason to book today rather than someday.
- Visitors have to compose a message themselves, which is enough friction that most simply leave.

What to do

PROJECT Automate the first three follow-ups so they go out whether or not you have capacity that week, and keep your manual touch for the ones who reply.

Removes the 'I meant to message them' loss without adding to your workload.

PROJECT Finish the sequence: five emails over two weeks covering what to expect, the result they're after, reviews, common worries and an invitation to book.

Converts the undecided without another conversation from you.

THE NEXT LEVEL · BUILT WITH YOU

Follow-up that runs itself and knows when to stop. Each enquiry who has not booked gets a sequence shaped around what they asked about, by email, text or the channel they came in on. It stops the moment they book, and the replies that need a person come to you with the thread already read.

Tools

Start here

- Three saved messages: the day after, day three, and day seven. Send them by hand until the pattern is proven.
- A note in the diary each Friday to check who enquired this week and never heard back.

The joined-up version

An enquiry that does not book joins a sequence by itself, the sequence stops the moment they do book, and you only step in when somebody replies.

Priority 2

Retention & Re-engagement

SYSTEMISED 56/100

What's working

- You follow up after appointments, which keeps the relationship warm.
- You do reach out to clients who've drifted.

The gaps

- Only 28% of your clients are repeat, so most of your income depends on constantly finding new people.
- Referrals happen by accident rather than because you've made them easy and rewarding.
- You know retention isn't where it should be - which means you're paying to replace clients you could have kept.

What to do

QUICK WIN Ask for the next booking before they leave, as well as sending the follow-up.
In-room rebooking typically converts several times better than any message sent later.

PROJECT Prompt every client to rebook before they leave, and set up a re-engagement message for anyone who hasn't been back in 10 weeks.
Lifting repeat business from 28% to 48% would meaningfully raise your income without a single new enquiry.

THE NEXT LEVEL · BUILT WITH YOU

Rebooking prompts timed to each treatment's own cycle rather than one blanket reminder, so clients hear from you when they are actually due. Anyone drifting past their window is picked up automatically, and the ones who do come back are asked to bring someone with them.

Tools

Start here

- Ask for the next booking before the client leaves. It costs nothing and it moves fastest.
- A list of everyone who has not been back in three months, worked through by hand once.

The joined-up version

The system knows when each client is due back, asks them before you would have remembered to, and only tells you about the ones who do not answer.

Priority 3

Reminders & No-Show Prevention

SYSTEMISED 61/100

What's working

- Email reminders are going out automatically.
- Charging for missed appointments protects the value of your time.

The gaps

- A single reminder leaves a long silent gap between booking and appointment.
- A 10% no-show rate means roughly one in 10 booked appointments earns nothing.
- Enforcing sometimes teaches clients the policy is negotiable, which quietly increases late cancellations.

What to do

QUICK WIN Add SMS reminders - texts are opened within minutes, emails often aren't opened at all.

SMS reminders typically cut no-shows further than email alone.

QUICK WIN Send two reminders: 48 hours before (long enough to rebook rather than cancel) and 24 hours before.

The 48-hour reminder converts would-be no-shows into reschedules, which keeps the revenue.

THE NEXT LEVEL · BUILT WITH YOU

Two-way reminders that ask rather than tell. A client confirms or cancels from the message, and a cancellation goes straight to a waitlist that fills the slot from the people most likely to say yes. Repeated no-shows are flagged quietly, so you can decide what to do about them rather than finding out later.

Tools

Start here

- Reminders switched on at 48 and 24 hours in the system you already pay for.
- A cancellation policy written in one short paragraph and shown at the point of booking.

The joined-up version

The reminder asks for a yes or no rather than just telling them, and a no goes straight to the people waiting for a slot.

The plan

Week by week

Everything from the roadmap, in the order to do it. All of it moves Enquiry-to-client conversion.

1 Phase one

Weeks 1-2

QUICK WIN — Nurture

Choose one standing first-visit offer - a credit against the first invoice, an add-on, or a small saving on the first booking - and use it in every follow-up.

QUICK WIN — Nurture

Add a short enquiry form - name, contact and what they need - to your main service pages, and reply to it with your standard first response.

2 Phase two

Weeks 3-6

PROJECT — Nurture

Automate the first three follow-ups so they go out whether or not you have capacity that week, and keep your manual touch for the ones who reply.

PROJECT — Nurture

Finish the sequence: five emails over two weeks covering what to expect, the result they're after, reviews, common worries and an invitation to book.

3 Phase three

Weeks 7-12

PROJECT — Retention

Prompt every client to rebook before they leave, and set up a re-engagement message for anyone who hasn't been back in 10 weeks.

PROJECT — Retention

Automate it on a 10-week trigger so it happens even in the weeks you're flat out.

THREE THINGS YOU CAN DO THIS WEEK

- Choose one standing first-visit offer - a credit against the first invoice, an add-on, or a small saving on the first booking - and use it in every follow-up.
- Add a short enquiry form - name, contact and what they need - to your main service pages, and reply to it with your standard first response.
- Ask for the next booking before they leave, as well as sending the follow-up.

Next steps

Three ways to close these gaps

Everything in this report is one 90-day cycle: Enquiry-to-client conversion as the focus, with the priorities that move it. That is exactly how the LEAP sprint runs. You can run it yourself - the real question is how much of it you want to carry alone.

Option 1

Run it yourself

Included

The whole cycle is written out for you to work through in order. Be warned that it is a fair amount of work: three months of building, testing and following up around an already full diary, and the parts you're least sure about are usually the ones that slip.

Option 2

Your top priority, built for you

From £950

We take the gap that's costing you most and build the fix properly, so it runs without you remembering to do it. Any quick wins that sit alongside it are included in the build.

Option 3

LEAP - 90-Day Sprint

From £2,500 a month

The same cycle, built with you across ninety days: your focus KPI, the aligned priorities, fortnightly sessions, and the work shared rather than left to your evenings. Your number gets looked at every two weeks, which is usually what separates a plan that happens from one that doesn't.

About

Tulivo Digital

Jemina Semakula helps service business owners fix the journey between "I'm interested" and "I've booked again". Most of them don't have a marketing problem - they have a journey problem: enquiries that go unanswered, follow-ups that never happen, and clients who simply drift away.

The work is practical: response systems, booking that doesn't lose people, reminders that protect your diary, review engines and retention sequences - built into the business, not handed over as a document.

What we do

- Customer journey diagnostics and implementation
- AI assistants and automated client communications
- Automation and CRM builds for clinics, studios and salons
- Websites and booking journeys designed to convert
- Reputation, retention and referral systems
